

HEDGECOCK FARM

Memorandum of Understanding and Agreement

Between

GUILFORD COUNTY

HIGH POINT PRESERVATION SOCIETY, INC.

This Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) and Agreement is hereby made, entered into and effective as of August 3, 2017, and sets forth the terms and understanding between Guilford County, a body politic and corporate of the State of North Carolina, hereinafter referred to as the "County," and the High Point Preservation Society, Inc., a North Carolina corporation, hereinafter referred to as the "Preservation," and collectively referred to as the "Parties," to manage and interpret the Junius W. Hedgecock Farm, part of the Rich Fork Preserve.

W I T N E S S E T H :

Background

Cooperative efforts were forged beginning in March 2017, as the Preservation was called upon by the citizen-led Friends of Rich Fork Preserve/Hedgecock Farm. This group sought advice on managing and interpreting the historic farm, and members of the Preservation proposed a partnership to accomplish these goals.

The Preservation was established in 1984 to coordinate a community response to preservation issues. Early initiatives of the organization included the establishment of the High Point Preservation Commission, and fundraising and relocation of the 1930 Little Red Schoolhouse to the High Point Historical Museum. The organization also lobbied for the preservation of the Ferdinand Ecker House at 901 Johnson Street, fundraised for the restoration of the 1906 High Point Southern Railway Passenger Depot, and erected a monument to recognize the lives of African American workers that were lost in the construction of the railroad underpass in downtown High Point.

The Preservation is an excellent partner for this venture as its focus is restoring historic places and interpreting those places for the enjoyment of the public.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Parties agree as follows:

- 1. Purpose. This MOU will outline key elements of a proposal for the preservation and stewardship of the Junius W. Hedgecock Farm in High Point, Guilford County.

These listed goals will be accomplished by undertaking the following activities (Phase One) within 120 days of approval of COU (Change of Use):

- A. Insurance will be provided for vacant buildings and exterior premises of general liability in the amount of $1,000,000. (see quote for coverage through Maury, Donnelly, & Parr);
- B. Grounds immediately around the house and outbuildings will be cleared;
- C. Water issues with house will be resolved (water in cellar, drainage, grading, roof, fascia and trim);
- D. The house will be secured (cellar door, siding repair, window and door openings of house);
- E. Intermediate repairs to Outbuildings;
- F. Installation of temporary security fencing (wire 4x4 or 5x6 fencing of similar with metal stake poles 48" high, gates as needed) See Attached Map for locations. RED sites will be fenced; GREEN sites will be stabilized. Fencing will not impede or interfere with proposed trail network; and,
- G. High Point Preservation Society will be responsible for mowing and weed-trimming around structures and inside fences on an as-needed basis. Guilford County is responsible for areas outside of fencing.

These listed goals will be accomplished by undertaking the following activities (Phase Two) within 180 days of approval of COU:

- A. Repair brick foundation and chimneys;
 - B. Install glazing in windows; and,
 - C. Stabilization of Outbuildings.
- 2. Reporting. Guilford County will evaluate the effectiveness and adherence to this Agreement with the Preservation, of the following tasks and timeline:
- A. Repairs will be made on structures on the site within 120 days of approval of this Memorandum. Repairs include stabilization of the Hedgecock House, repair of outbuildings and barns, and removal of collapsed Tobacco Packing Barn, as described in the Hedgecock Farm Preservation Plan;
 - B. Programming will be planned for occasions that demonstrate various aspects of farm usage, architecture, and agriculture. The Preservation will identify assistance (through UNCG History Department or other) to develop a series of interpretive panels to provide a public interpretation of the historic site over the next year; and,
 - C. Security will be addressed in the form of temporary fencing or caution tape around structures until permeant fencing can be established. Temporary fencing will be set in place within 120 days of approval of this Memorandum. Permanent fencing will be developed, as funding is raised, within the next one to two-years.
- 3. Funding. This MOU is not a commitment of funds from Guilford County. Funds will be raised through the community by donations and commitments from local foundations.
- 4. Duration and/or Modification. This MOU shall be in effect for a two (2) year term, beginning August 3, 2017, and expiring August 2, 2019, or until modified by written Contract Addendum executed by duly authorized officials of the Parties, or terminated by either Party giving thirty (30) days written notice to the other Party. This MOU includes the option to extend for three (3) additional one (1) year renewals under the same terms and conditions upon mutual written Agreement of both Parties. This MOU may be modified only by a written Contract Addendum executed by the duly authorized officials from Guilford County and the Preservation. In the absence of a mutual written Agreement executed by the authorized officials from Guilford County and the High Point Preservation Society, Inc., this MOU shall end on August 2, 2019.

- 5. Notices/Contact Information. All notices pursuant to this MOU shall be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, registered mail, postage prepaid, with return receipt requested, at the addresses appearing below, but each Party may change such address by written notice in accordance with this paragraph. Notices delivered personally will be deemed communicated as of actual receipt. Mailed notices will be deemed communicated as of three (3) days after mailing.

contract, merger documents, etc. Further, the Preservation will submit the name and address of the assuming Agency's registered agent for service of process and/or all notices required under this Contract.

- 8. Severability. If any provision of this Contract is held unenforceable, then such provision will be modified to reflect the Parties' intention. All remaining provisions of this Contract shall remain in full force and effect.
- 9. Force Majeure. Neither Party shall be liable to the other Party for any failure or delay caused by events beyond such Party's control and not due to its own negligence, provided that such Party uses commercially reasonable efforts to resume performance as soon as reasonably practicable. The non-performing Party shall notify the other Party of the force majeure event within twenty-four (24) hours of the onset thereof. In the event that a force majeure event precludes the Preservation from performing services and/or providing goods for a period of ten (10) consecutive business days, Guilford County shall have the right to: (a) procure replacement goods and/or services from an alternative source and/or (b) terminate the Contract or portion(s) of Contract upon written notice to the Preservation.

Significance of Place

ABSTRACT: The Hedgecock Farm is an excellent example of Americana as Guilford County's agricultural heritage is showcased through a narrative that dates to the Pre-Revolutionary Era, including tobacco cultivation and self-sufficient farming.

In 2013, consultant Laura A. W. Phillips, Architectural Historian, was commissioned by the Rich Fork Preserve/Hedgecock Farm Committee using funds supplied by the Marion Stedman Covington Foundation of Greensboro to complete a National Register of Historic Places nomination. Ms. Phillips completed the nomination with consultation from Ann Swallow and Mitch Wilds from the North Carolina Historic Preservation Office in Raleigh.

The National Register of Historic Places is the official list of the Nation's historic places worthy of preservation. Authorized by the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the National Park Service's National Register of Historic Places is part of a national program to coordinate and support public and private efforts to identify, evaluate, and protect America's historic and archeological resources.

This process determined that the site was an excellent candidate for inclusion to the National Register.

According to research completed by Phillips and recorded in the National Register nomination, Junius W. Hedgecock (1876-1961) purchased forty acres on February 26, 1900 in the northwestern section of present-day High Point, North Carolina, and added additional acreage in 1918. On that land, he established a tobacco farm that continued in operation by his family for nearly a century and remained in Hedgecock family ownership until 2012, when it was sold to Guilford County to become part of a nature preserve.

Soon after his first land purchase, Hedgecock built a one-story, single-pile, frame house with a triple-A gable roof, gable-end chimneys, front and rear porches, a center-hall plan, and a rear ell. The house was a simple, but refined, example of the Queen Anne style popular at the time. This house type became ubiquitous in both rural and urban North Carolina during the early twentieth century. Over the years, however, many of these houses have been replaced by more modern houses or other buildings, and most of those that survive, at least in High Point, have been modified in a variety of ways, particularly with synthetic siding, replacement windows and other features, and additions. Although somewhat deteriorated from having stood vacant for more than a quarter of a century, the Junius W. Hedgecock House is remarkable because it has never been altered, not even wired or plumbed. It retains its original brick foundation, weatherboard siding, brick chimneys, five-panel doors, two-over-two double-hung sash windows, colored-glass panes in its front gable window, heavily molded house and porch cornices with cornice returns, turned porch posts with turned and spindled brackets, beaded-board interior – unpainted in the front rooms and hall – two of its three period mantels, and pantry, loft, and cellar. The exterior retains its original paint scheme and perhaps its original paint. As such, the house provides a rare view of this house type, as it was built, at the turn of the twentieth century. It is unparalleled in High Point.

The agrarian setting of the house within the city of High Point is also remarkable. Its rural acreage has remained undisturbed, though somewhat overgrown, as the areas surrounding it have been built up with medium- and high-density housing. The wooded and open-field setting of the house contains a collection of secondary buildings and structures, dating from the first quarter of the twentieth century to the 1970s, that served domestic and agricultural purposes. Although most of these buildings and structures post-date the ca. 1900 period of significance for the house, they still provide important physical elements that flesh out the picture of a small, family owned and operated tobacco farm during most of the twentieth century in piedmont North Carolina. Within the collection, three sites contribute to the National Register designation: the Queen Anne-style house, the smokehouse, and the corncrib.

The Junius W. Hedgecock House meets the National Register’s Criterion C for local architectural significance in High Point. Its period of significance is ca. 1900, when the house was built.

Stewardship Partner

The Friends of Rich Fork Preserve/Hedgecock Farm, and Conner Trail Committee is a citizen advisory group that recommended opportunities for preservation and recreation within the Rich Fork property.

The High Point Preservation Society was established in 1984 to coordinate a community response to preservation issues. The directors included Edwin A. “Pete” Peyton, Jr., James F. Morgan, Pauline Wertz, and Francis Dalton.

Early initiatives of the organization included the establishment of the High Point Preservation Commission, a government appointed body that oversees and protects properties within the city-approved historic districts. Under the leadership of Pete Peyton, the organization raised funds and relocated the 1930 Little Red Schoolhouse from its location on East Ray Street to East Lexington Avenue near the High Point Historical Museum. The organization also lobbied for the preservation of the Ferdinand Ecker House at 901 Johnson Street, fundraised for the restoration of the 1906 High Point Southern Railway Passenger Depot, and erected a monument to recognize the lives of African American workers that were lost in the construction of the railroad underpass in downtown High Point.

The bylaws of the organization, under Section 9 (c) state the ability:

...to acquire by purchase, exchange, lease, devise or otherwise, and hold, own, maintain, manage, improve, develop, and operate, and to sell, transfer, convey, lease, mortgage, exchange, or otherwise dispose of or deal in or with, real property, wheresoever situate, and any and all rights, interests or privileges therein; and to erect, construct, make, improve and operate, or to aid or subscribe toward the erection, construction, making, improvement, and operation of offices, warehouses, plants, mills, stores, laboratories, studios, workshops, buildings, and other establishments and installations, and equipment, machinery, apparatus, and other facilities of every kind and description.

This authority allows for the High Point Preservation Society to partner with the County on this venture.

The High Point Preservation Society remains active today with interests in numerous projects across the city. At its board meeting on February 24, 2017 the Board of Directors unanimously moved to take this on as a project and thereby explore opportunities to preserve the Farm structures.

As a result of the March 31, 2017 meeting of the High Point Preservation Society, the board unanimously approved a partnership with Guilford County to preserve and interpret the Hedgecock Farm.

High Point Preservation Society is the perfect partner for this venture as its focus is restoring historic places and interpreting those places for the enjoyment of the public.

History Day Open House

Volunteers with the High Point Preservation Society can easily use the National Register nomination already completed to provide detailed and informative tours of the farm property on special occasions throughout the year. Tours could focus on themes such as the Hedgecock Family, Tobacco Heritage, Farm Life, or Materials and Construction Methods. These could be guided tours offered on Saturday mornings or week day afternoons.

A Preservation Model

Gibson Park was created in 1990 to provide active park space between High Point, Jamestown, and Greensboro. It is owned by Guilford County with a management partnership from Jamestown. The 200-acre park recognizes the well-known Jamestown Rifle Makers who lived and worked in the valley during the mid-19th century. Rifle making was a chief industry and it is believed as many as 75 individuals manufactured the handcrafted muzzle-loaded rifles that came to be commonly known as the Jamestown long rifle.

Within the park and just off the Bicentennial Greenway is the Deep River cabin. This single-story log and frame house is thought to have been constructed as early as 1800. The south-facing building is a well-preserved example of a saddlebag plan, so named for two equal size rooms flanking a central chimney stack. The easternmost room is likely the oldest, featuring V-notched logs chinked with wood slats and clay, few windows, a loft, and a segmental-arched mantelpiece around a large cooking fireplace.

Though the origins of the house are not known, its first owner is thought to be Levin Stack, a maker of Jamestown Rifles, whose shop was located just north of the residence. Chain of title is unclear until 1871 when George Borum bought the property from the trustees of William Collins. The surrounding property was part of the extensive hunting preserve of Clarence Mackey, who had a lodge on Guilford-Jamestown Road in the 1910s. Later owners included the Gibson family of High Point.

The building was preserved around 1995-2000 as part of the larger park complex and nearby Greenway. It remains under the stewardship and care of Guilford County. Though it is rarely opened, it is a touchstone the rich past of Guilford County and a reminder of the rifle-makers who populated the area.

Stewardship Priorities

Immediate concerns with the Hedgecock Farm include securing the property from trespassers and protecting structures from deterioration by “mothballing”.

Securing the Building

Historic buildings are irreplaceable, and it is vital that windows and doors be sealed. Since the Hedgecock Farm is located within the City Limits of High Point, it is recommended that some simple form of monitoring or alarm devices be used.

To protect decorative features, such as mantels or stained glass windows from theft or vandalism, it is advisable to board them up inside the house.

For windows and doors, plywood panels or Plexiglas can be properly installed to protect wooden frames. These are the preferred treatment from a preservation standpoint. As an immediate precaution, inset plywood panels can be attached using screws into window casings to avoid damage to frame and sash. Plywood panels are usually 1/2" thick and made of exterior grade stock, such as CDX, or marine grade plywood. This level of detail is a good indication that the building is protected and valued by the community. Subsequent actions might include restoration of windows and doors with an installation of Plexiglas so hikers can see inside and realize the building floorplan, but not enter inside.

For monitoring, the Hedgecock Farm will not maintain electrical power, so there are some devices available using battery packs, such as intrusion alarms, and smoke detectors. In combination with a cellular phone, they can also provide some level of direct communication with police and fire departments.

Stabilization of structures listed as “Contributing” on the National Register nomination must be completed using money already provided by the Covington Foundation. These buildings include the house, the smokehouse, and the corncrib. These buildings contribute to the understanding of the history and evolution of the site as clarified in the National Register nomination. Part of a mothballing project involves correcting deficiencies to slow down the deterioration of the building while it is vacant. Water infiltration is important to correct, including repairs to the metal roofing or water entry into the basement.

While every effort may have been made to stabilize the property and to slow the deterioration of materials, natural disasters, storms, undetected leaks, and unwanted intrusion can still occur. A regular schedule for surveillance, maintenance, and monitoring should be established. The fire and police departments should be notified that the property will be vacant. A walk-through visit to familiarize these officials with the building's location, construction materials, and overall plan may be invaluable if they are called on in the future.

The optimum schedule for surveillance would include visits to check the property. The sooner that water leaks or break-ins will be noticed. Also, the more frequently the building is entered, the better the air exchange. By keeping the site clear and the building in good repair, the community will know that the building has not been abandoned.

Other “Noncontributing” structures on the site are not integral to the National Register nomination. These structures can be left in place as they have been for decades without direct attention. Although they do not contribute to the potential National Register designation, they help identify the site as an old farm and enjoy charm and character. These structures can be retained to convey the historic nature of the property and minimally maintained with volunteer labor supervised by a trained architect and experienced carpenters.

Safety

Safety in historic buildings is critical to the public enjoyment of sites. Temporary fencing may be installed to let visitors know what is “off-limits” and not available for their inspection.

Permanent fencing can be installed in ways that restrain access to areas but also accommodate the aesthetic farm setting of the property. Areas and buildings that are off

Controlling Pests

It may be advantageous to have damp or infected wood treated with insecticides (as permitted by each state) or preservatives, such as borate, to slow the rate of deterioration during the time that the building is not in use. Estimates for this work are referenced in the next section.

This information and additional information on Mothballing Historic Buildings can be found on the website administered by the National Park Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior: Technical Preservation Services Brief #31.

<https://www.nps.gov/tps/how-to-preserve/briefs/31-mothballing.htm#stable>

Signage

Placement of information signs can enhance the visitor experience and can serve as a deterrent to vandalism. Signage topics might include maps of the farm and its outbuildings, roads, fields; historical information and early photographs; explanations of early building techniques; and tobacco cultivation processes. Inside the house, additional signage could be used to inform visitors of the Hedgecock family, room usage, decorative arts techniques, and rural life in Guilford County during the turn of the twentieth century. Opportunities may be explored with Public History programs listed below.

Funding Priorities

Insurance Coverage

The owners and stewards of historic properties can find it challenging to procure insurance. However, the National Trust Insurance Services/Maury, Donnelly, & Parr, Inc located in Baltimore, Maryland is a specialized firm with broad resources related directly to the care of historic properties such as the Hedgecock Farm.

In order for this insurance to be put in place, there does need to be a legal occupancy on the part of the tenant (High Point) to create “insurable interest”. An insurable interest could include a lease. Both the county and the committee/society need to be listed on the contractor’s liability insurance when any work begins and the contractor needs both general liability and workers’ compensation insurance.

As a specialized broker/agent, NTIS/MDP has become the leading expert in providing insurance solutions to preservation organizations, historic sites, house museums, historic hotels, and other miscellaneous historic structures. As a specialty firm, they understand the appropriate limit of insurance and specialized coverage features needed for sites such as the Hedgecock Farm.

Working through the National Trust Insurance Services/Maury, Donnelly, & Parr, Inc, we have secured a quote from United States Liability Insurance Company (A++ Rated / Admitted) that includes:

Mothballing/Security

Several projects have been priced for stabilizing the farmhouse, including 1) repairing and pointing the masonry foundation and chimneys, 2) including the installation of a drain to dry out the cellar; 3) the repair of the roof that is leaking around the chimneys and rear (southeast) corner where the back porch joins the main structure above the kitchen pantry and the restoration of the small front attic window; and 4) replacement of approximately 257 square feet of interior bead board stained to match the existing unpainted bead board. The North Carolina State Historic Preservation Office National Register Coordinator Ann Swallow has requested this interior bead board be replaced before finalizing the National Register nomination. A donation of beadboard has already been offered.

The evaluation of what is needed for stabilization of the farm house, completed by architect Jerry Leimenstoll in the fall of 2014, recommended hiring experienced restoration experts to stabilize the farm house, beginning with the masonry foundation, chimneys, and root cellar (to keep water from entering).

Of importance, also is repairing the metal roof where leaks are detected around the chimneys, in the rear southeast corner where the back porch joins the main house above the kitchen pantry, and restoring the small front attic window.

The estimate attached for this work is from an experienced General Contractor in historic preservation Siler Rothrock of Reidsville Building and Restoration, Inc. Siler Rothrock's restoration of a building on the campus of Elon University won the Gertrude S. Carraway Award from Preservation North Carolina in 2014.

Total costs $19,300

Additional work can be completed as funding allows at a later stage, including: 1) restoring windows and doors and covering with Plexiglas, 2) repairing porches and clapboard as needed, and 3) installing a French drain. These two additional items besides those currently listed were included in the quote of $19,400.

Stabilization of the farm outbuildings are less complicated, but are important components of this project. Details on the removal of the ruins of the Tobacco Pack House are given in the End Notes, under section ii. Other structures can be stabilized and made safe with simple carpentry, and can be fenced off from the public if necessary. Some repairs and fence construction projects are excellent candidates for supervised youth merit projects.

Pest Mitigation

Estimates for pest control included the need for an on-site inspection by a professional pest control expert, but for the size of the farmhouse, on phone estimates: 1) Edwards Pest Control said the usual cost is $800-$1000 for both termites and powder post beetles, and 2) Dobson Pest Control quoted $900 for termites and $1200 for powder post beetles [for underneath house only], with possibly $8000-$14000 if we wanted the building tented. These quotes only include the house. The Friends committee chooses initially to treat only underneath the house for powder post beetles.

Funding Opportunities

The Rich Fork Preserve/Hedgecock Farm Committee has already found community funding support for this initiative in the form of grants and donations.

- In the spring of 2013, the Committee received an $8,500 grant from the Marion Stedman Covington Foundation to hire an architect and structural engineer to plan for stabilization of the site, to complete the National Register nomination form referenced earlier in this report, and to pay administration costs to the High Point Historical Society. Those funds have been put to work and are expended.
- In the spring of 2015, the Committee obtained a $15,000 grant from the Marion Stedman Covington Foundation used to hire a structural engineer to assess and pay for the costs of foundation, chimney, bead board, and roof repairs, as well as drying in the root cellar. Additional assessment may be needed for structural consideration.
- In June 2016, the Committee held a fundraiser at the nearby Forest Hills Presbyterian Church, at 836 W. Lexington Ave. in High Point. Fundraiser tickets cost $15 per person and included food from Carter Brothers Barbeque and music from groups Forever His and Payne Creek. The event raised $7,200

Additional funds for informative signs could be directed from the estate of Lib Conner for signage and/or walking trails.

At the February 24th Board Meeting of the High Point Preservation Society, directors agreed to pursue further investigation into opportunities with the Hedgecock Farm including financial and management roles. The result of that approval is this Preservation Plan, and the investigation of collaboration with Guilford County.

Additional fundraisers could be made through online accounts such as GoFundMe.com. Online fundraising can be a great way to raise money and obtain funds for various reasons. Whether fundraising for a specific project (painting, wood repair) or general funds (Hedgecock Farm maintenance), online fundraising sites can be helpful in launching and managing campaign.

Programming Opportunities

Community Partnerships have already contributed a great deal to the preservation of the Hedgecock Farm. Programming partnerships could include coordination with the UNCG Public History Program. Dr. Benjamin Filene is the Director of Public History and a Professor of History who has completed several interpretive installations at sites across the region including downtown Greensboro and the Revolution Mill. He has been made aware of this opportunity as a project. Email: bpfilene@uncg.edu, Office: 2137 MHRA, Office Phone: 336-334-5645

Other programming partnerships could include local preservation or historical societies to provide perennial tours that relate history and/or architecture, or other small social events that celebrate the history of agriculture or historic preservation.

Foundation Partnerships have also been made. In particular, the Marian Stedman Covington has provided funds to list the property to the National Register of Historic Places, and to stabilize the farmhouse. Other possible foundation partners could include private family foundations or community foundations.

Community partners such as Friends of Rich Fork Preserve/Hedgecock Farm, Eagle Scout Badge candidates and fraternal/sororal groups can provide much needed labor such as clearing brush and tall grass, recruiting volunteers, and organizing leadership teams.

Stick Shed, Hog House #1, Hog House #2, Feed Barn, Feed Bar – Lean-To, Sheds, Corncrib, Storage Shed, Tobacco Barn #1, Tobacco Barn #2, Smokehouse, Hog Hanging Rack, Dog Lot, Well, & Residence. These designations correspond to the study map included in the report prepared by Laura Phillips. Tobacco Pack House: This is a two-story structure with brick masonry foundation and wood frame walls and roof. The structure is very seriously deteriorated. While some of the roof frame remains, the roof is completely gone as well as everything on the main level except some of the exterior walls and floor framing. The western foundation wall has collapsed also. The remaining structure is unstable and hazardous, but it remains part of the tobacco story. Recommendation is to remove structure above foundation and salvage materials for repairs to other structures. Consider measures to redirect water from accumulating within the foundation walls after demolition of the building frame. Remove debris in/around the structure as well as encroaching vegetation. Concerns about the depth of the basement and injuries from falls may be assuaged with a deep layer of clean soil perhaps topped by mulch at the base of the structure. This fill should be made to secure the foundations from falls. The addition of clean fill dirt will also preserve the foundations for any archaeological investigations. Mulch will make it easier to keep growth of vegetation to a minimum. The intent here is to make the area safe for visitors, and to preserve the foundations for interpretive purposes and future historical investigation.

POLICYHOLDER DISCLOSURE NOTICE OF TERRORISM INSURANCE COVERAGE

You are hereby notified that under the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act ("the Act"), as amended, you have a right to purchase insurance coverage for losses arising out of acts of terrorism. As defined in Section 102(1) of the Act. The term "act of terrorism" means any act or acts that are certified by the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with the Secretary of Homeland Security, and the Attorney General of the United States, to be an act of terrorism; to be a violent act or an act that is dangerous to human life, property, or infrastructure; to have resulted in damage within the United States, or outside the United States in the case of certain air carriers or vessels or the premises of a United States mission; and to have been committed by an individual or individuals, as part of an effort to coerce the civilian population of the United States or to influence the policy or affect the conduct of the United States Government by coercion.

You should know that any coverage for losses caused by certified acts of terrorism is partially reimbursed by the United States under a formula established by federal law. Under this formula, the United States reimburses 85% through 2015; 84% beginning on January 1, 2016; 83% beginning on January 1, 2017; 82% beginning on January 1, 2018; 81% beginning on January 1, 2019 and 80% beginning on January 1, 2020, of covered terrorism losses exceeding the statutorily established deductible paid by the insurance company providing the coverage. The premium charged for this coverage is provided below and does not include any charges for the portion of loss covered by the federal government under the Act.

Coverage for "insured losses", as defined in the Act, is subject to the coverage terms, conditions, amounts and limits in this policy applicable to losses arising from events other than acts of terrorism.

You should know that the Act, as amended, contains a $100 billion cap that limits U.S. Government reimbursement, as well as insurers' liability, for losses resulting from certified acts of terrorism when the amount of such losses in any one calendar year exceeds $100 billion. If the aggregate insured losses for all insurers exceed $100 billion, your coverage may be reduced.

You should also know that, under federal law, you are not required to purchase coverage for losses caused by certified acts of terrorism.
