WHEREAS, he and his wife Sharon have two grown sons, two daughters-in-law and five grandchildren. Mr. Troxler has always been passionate about the cultivation and preservation of rural spaces. He recognized a need for recreational opportunities for the youth in the area, and 32 years ago, formed the Browns-Monticello Summit Youth Association; and

WHEREAS, over the years, and under Mr. Troxler's leadership as the president of the Association, the program entered into an agreement with Guilford County to use an outdated and abandoned school facility located at the 5006 NC Hwy 150 West. It was then selected to serve as a meeting place for residents to congregate and for local children to have a safe place to play; and

WHEREAS, through fundraising, volunteerism, and personal commitments the members of the Youth Association have served as caretakers for the old Gymnasium facility. Funds were collected to ensure the general maintenance of the facility including the addition of a new roof. Their investments have developed the facility into a thriving, vibrant and beloved community center. It now offers an aftercare program, summer programs, and five softball and baseball fields; and

WHEREAS, as result of Mr. Troxler's leadership, dedication, and loyalty to the community, the Youth Association provides a place to nurture the potential of every child and teen that participates in their programs; helping them to achieve personal and education goals, building confidence, exploring new interests and developing leadership skills.
